SIXTH YEAR.

MAYSVILLE, KY., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1897.

Purely Business!

The columns of a newspaper represent a cash value. No publisher can afford to give advertising "notices" free any more than a merchant can toss over his counter free gifts of dry goods or shoes. A newspaper is a legitimate business concern. Its columns are its stock in trade, and advertisements should be paid for, no matter in what part of the paper they appear.

We Knew We Had a Good Thing in the Stock of Goods

We bought by electric light a few days since. There is so much clap-trap clothing advertisements in vogue just now that we refrained from saying very much about the purchase. We simply called the public's attention to it by telling them to look at the display of these goods in our windows and note the prices on them. We knew we would sell some of them. The warm weather left a doubt as to selling a great many now. The doubt is dispelled. Since the day we opened this purchase and placed them in our windows our store has been crowded with customers anxious to secure these unheard-of bargains. We advise our friends who contemplate buying Fall Suits and Overcoats not to let this opportunity slip. It is only once in a long time that circumstances arise that enable merchants to secure first-class clothing that can be sold for less money than the cheaply gotten-up stuff that is flooding the market just now.

Our $2, $2.50 and $3. Custom-Made

SHOES!

That we warrant to give satisfaction and cheerfully return the money if they do not have quickly sprung into favor. Out of town mail orders—and of which we receive many—receive prompt attention. Look at our show-windows; none like them in the state.

GRIZZLED HEROES

Reunion Here Yesterday of the Tenth and Sixteenth Kentucky Regiments.

A ROSTER OF THOSE PRESENT.

The reunion of the Tenth Cavalry and Sixteenth Infantry in this city yesterday constituted the largest gathering of old soldiers that has yet characterized these annual occasions.

The weather was faultless, and the General Committee, composed of Messrs. W. W. Lynch, George W. Oldham and Edward W. Mitchell of the Tenth and Messrs. George N. Crawford, Charles Paul and George M. Clinger of the Sixteenth, had made such abundant preparation for the gastronomic comfort of the visitors that if anything was lacking in minor details it was more than made up in the elaborate menu to which over four hundred sat down in the big Bierbower Building.

The dinner was prepared and served under the direction of Mrs. Wright, Mrs. Paul, Mrs. Oldham, Mrs. Crawford, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Means, Mrs. Lynch, Mrs. Helmer, Miss Lewis, assisted by Miss Payne, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Royce, Miss Lena Myers, Miss Bettie Hill, Mrs. Payne, Mrs. Pangburn, Mrs. Dawson, Miss Bridges, Mrs. Triplett, Mrs. Hill, Miss Wright, Miss Lottie Hill and Miss Atta Dregel, with Comrade John V. Dea in charge of the carving.

Following the dinner the members of the Tenth went into a business session at G. A. R. Hall.

Among the first things was the unanimous adoption of the following:

WHEREAS, This Association having learned with sincere regret of the serious and long continued illness of our Chaplain, Rev. James P. Hendrick, a Comrade who labored earnestly for the cause of the Supreme Grand Commander and for morality in our regiment; Resolved, That the sympathy of this Tenth Kentucky Cavalry Association is hereby extended to Comrade Hendrick in his sickness, and that we will earnestly pray for his restoration to perfect health and usefulness.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the records of this Association and a copy be sent to Comrade Hendrick at his home in Flemingsburg, Ky. Signed, C. C. DEGMAN, Secretary Tenth Kentucky Cavalry Association.

Historian W. W. Lynch of this city read a most interesting sketch of the Regiment, which THE LEDGER presents to its readers in full, to wit:

MAYSVILLE, KY., Oct. 27th, 1897.

Mr. President and Comrades of the Association: As your Historian I beg leave to present you with a few paragraphs hastily gleaned from memory and records as a reminiscence of the Tenth Kentucky Cavalry Regiment as an organization of the past. This regiment, as you all know, was the outgrowth of a call by the President of the United States in the spring of 1862 for Kentucky's quota of 300,000 men, and in its infancy grew out of an incident very intimately connected with our sister regiment, the Sixteenth Kentucky Infantry, which was at that time encamped at or near Louisville.

Our present grand old Colonel, R. H. Maltby, at that time the Adjutant of the Sixteenth Kentucky Infantry, and believing as he did that Kentucky being a border state would become the battle-ground of the War, for so it looked to every observing man at that time, proposed to the Commanding General that he resign his commission in the Sixteenth and that he return to his home in Mason county and there recruit a regiment of cavalry on the condition that the War Department at Washington furnish as its Commander a regular United States Army Officer.

All this was promised Colonel Maltby, and he accordingly came home with his commission and in a very short time had 1,176 men enrolled for one year's service in the Army of the United States. The organization took place in East Maysville on the ground now occupied by Cooper's Brickyard, and there they were equipped and mounted, and not many days elapsed before the order came to march. With a hasty goodbye to home and friends the column filed out and was started to the front, part of the regiment passing through the border counties of Ohio and Kentucky, but all headed for Cincinnati, where they arrived in the latter part of August, 1862, with one leg in the stirrup hanging a little lower than the other. After crossing the Ohio river on a pontoon bridge they were marched to the West end of Covington, where, after a few days rest, they were mustered into the United States service by Lieutenant G. G. Hunt, United States Mustering Officer, on September 9th, 1862, as the Tenth Kentucky Cavalry.

The regiment was placed under the command of Colonel Joshua Tevis and was immediately put upon arduous duty. It was well known that General Kirby Smith was rapidly advancing toward the Ohio border with a heavy force, and the Tenth Kentucky was sent out in detachments to scout and scour the country towards Lexington. One of the first battalions sent out on detached duty was about September 17th. They marched in the direction of Florence, a small village ten miles from Covington, where they unexpectedly met a column of Confederate cavalry. Owing to a very abrupt bend in the road and the fact that the road was lined by a high hedge fence, neither party knew of the other's presence until they were face to face with each other. The fight commenced at once, and here the Tenth received her first baptism in blood, for almost at the first fire Thomas Prather of Company I fell from his horse with a bullet through his brain. Jonathan Bryant was the next to fall dead from his horse, a few others were wounded and ten taken prisoners. After a sharp skirmish our forces withdrew, but not without inflicting severe punishment to the enemy, for in passing the next day a new made grave was seen to mark the ground where the fight occurred.

After a few days of practice in the manual of arms and a thorough acquaintance with artillery and shooting things, for you all remember how each man was heavily armed with two large pistols, the Tenth was started out as the advance guard of the Army of Ohio in the campaign against General Kirby Smith, and after numerous skirmishes with Kirby's rear guard the Tenth arrived at Lexington about the latter end of October. The regiment was broken up some time in November into battalions and scattered in different parts of the state. The regiment was assigned to Brigadier General Q. A. Gilmore's Division, and was employed chiefly on the line towards Knoxville, Tenn., passing the entire winter in marching.

During the spring and summer of 1863 the regiment was employed in West Virginia and Northeast Tennessee. In Southern West Virginia one of the battalions captured the breech-loading artillery, so well known in connection with the history of Humphrey's invasion of Kentucky.

The services of this regiment, says the Adjutant General, were of the most active and efficient character. Its skirmishes and small fights were numerous and its marches continuous. Among others this regiment participated in the engagements of Elk Fork, Tenn., Gladsville, Va., Tripoli Bridge, Ky., Lancaster, Richmond, and in the pursuit and rout of the rebel cavalry of Pegram and Scott, besides the numerous affairs attending the advance of Major General Granger upon Kentucky. The regiment was mustered out at Maysville on September 17th, 1865, by Captain R. B. Hull of the United States Army.

W. W. LYNCH.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:

President—Colonel R. H. Maltby, Washington.
Vice-President—Edward W. Mitchell, Maysville.
Secretary—C. C. Degman, Springdale.
Treasurer—W. W. Lynch, Maysville.
Chaplain—Rev. J. P. Hendrick, Flemingsburg.

Historian—W. W. Lynch, Maysville.

An invitation was accepted from the Sixteenth to meet with that Regiment at Brookville November 30th, 1898, and the Tenth Regiment Association adjourned.

The Sixteenth Regiment Association met in the Bierbower Building.

The only business on the calendar was the election of officers and the naming of a time and place for next year's reunion—it being the Sixteenth's time to settle these matters.

The new officers chosen are—

President—John T. Yelton, Johnsville.
Vice-President—H. C. Metcalfe, Brookville.
Secretary—H. C. Weaver, Brookville.
Treasurer—George N. Crawford, Maysville.
Chaplain—Rev. Jacob Miller, Maysville.

A committee appointed for the purpose selected Brookville as the place and the 30th day of November as the time for the reunion in 1898, and the same committee was directed to invite the Tenth Regiment Association to meet with them—an invitation which was promptly conveyed and as promptly accepted.

Comrade John V. Dea was a whole team when it came to carving the meats at the big spread.

The date set for the next reunion, November 30th, is a day dear to all members of the Sixteenth. It is the anniversary of the Battle of Franklin, where that gallant Regiment won imperishable renown.

Among those in attendance was Dr. John F. Fleming of Nepton, who was Surgeon of the Tenth Kentucky. He is in his 85th year, and though quite feeble he nerved himself to meet his old Comrades once more.

The number in attendance was the largest in the history of these reunions, divided as follows:

Tenth Kentucky.....	67
Sixteenth Kentucky.....	81
Other Regiments.....	74
Total.....	222

BALLENGER, Jeweler.

Below is a list of those present, obtained at considerable labor on the part of THE LEDGER.

If any one's name is omitted it is because he failed to register, and if any of the names are wrongly given, you must remember that during the War it was the height of a soldier's glory to get killed and have his name spelled wrong in the papers!

Wherever no state is indicated after the Postoffice address, it will be understood that the town is in Kentucky.

Friday's Cash Sale

UNDERWEAR!

It has been our good luck to chance on many Underwear bargains in the 50 years history of this store, but never in our happiest experience have we been able to make such extraordinary offerings to our patrons as the following:

UNION SUITS—"Extraordinary offering" is no exaggerated phrase. We fearlessly challenge comparison with any $1 union suit bought during your entire shopping career. If you can't trust your eyes bring a dollar suit along. We want judges of quality, women who know underwear values, to critically examine these garments. There are two kinds—the Oneits, buttoning across the chest, and the Perfection, opening down the front, both in natural color.

THE ONEIT—Is ribbed and perfect in fit, shaped at the waist, made of choicest fleece, ideal in weight, exquisite in finish.

THE PERFECTION—Is a very delicate color, ribbed; it is part wool and as soft as lamb's fleece. Beautifully finished, silk taped, silk-croch edge.

THE PRICE—This underwear came to us in an unusual way—it goes to you the same. Every garment in the lot is a $1 value—we stake our honor on the statement—but they are yours to choose for 50c. Comfortable, hygienic, elegant, totally unlike the usual 50c. Union Suits offered, combining quality with a hundred per cent. reduction—do you think you will be wise to pass them by?

THE GREATEST VALUE—Without question ever shown here in underwear. Such a chance as comes only in years to the most alert business man and therefore to the shrewdest shopper. There are other goodnesses in this underwear we haven't space to tell. We only ask to show them. If you examine the garments the sale is made. Such values sell themselves.
